Technical requirements for Ronnie Muhl

Laptop Computer:

I carry my own laptop computer and need to present from this computer. I prefer not to load my presentation onto someone else's computer. I insist on having control over my own laptop and insist on it being set up in front of me in the front of the room, rather than having it stand at the technical desk or in a remote position. This needs to be kept in mind when it comes to cabling from the laptop to the data projector. I also carry my own cordless, remote mouse. I do also need a "mini-jack" sound cable for my laptop, as I play some DVD footage in my presentation.

Data Projector:

We will need a data projector. The brighter the better. I always carry my own projector with me and it is available to be used, or is there a backup.

Screen:

We will need a screen. It is better when the screen is positioned off-centre towards one of the corners at the front of the room, but this is not imperative. Rear projection is even better.

Sound:

I can speak without a microphone in a small venue seating up to 40 people. Anything bigger will definitely require the use of a microphone. We will need a cordless lapel microphone with fresh batteries. It's a good idea to have a backup microphone on hand, preferably also cordless.
